Welcome to Point Grey

---

SSBC has always been, at heart, a business-oriented university, and this facet of our educational mandate is reflected in our architecture. Although many buildings on campus are already soul-crushingly dull — befitting a true business school — we still believe a strong brand must be consistent.

That's why we're working hard to paint every building in campus in the same shade of neutral gray. Under the auspices of an undifferentiated corporate aesthetic, any sense of identity that might prevent you from achieving fiscal success will be obliterated — and here at Saunder, that's a good thing.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

To all future Saunderites:
Welcome. Reading this viewbook is your first step down the sunlit career path of the Saunder School of British Columbia.

As one of our esteemed colleagues, you will have access to opportunities offered at no other university in the province, the nation, or indeed the world.

Our “living business” model has increased the efficiency of the university a hundredfold, making the Saunder School of British Columbia the most profitable campus in Canada. The skills you will learn during your time here will be well worth the cost.

SSBC: “It’s mine.” And with just a small capital investment, it can be yours, too.

—President Dean Dan

FUN ON EVERY LEVEL

---

At SSBC, we know that when you work hard, you have to play hard — and we mean have to play hard. In the same way we work our students hard during the day—they'll go to class whether they like it or not—we play our students hard at night. That means lots of booze, lots of dancing and lots of music every day of the week, for eternity. There are some students who won't want to go to the party, but we emphasize that it's for the greater good — and those who abstain from drinking can always test out our SSBC-made meth.

TWO CAMPUSES ONE REGIME

Beautiful vineyards. Incredible wildlife. A burgeoning arts scene. Crystal blue lakes. Crystal meth.

Under the narcotically-sourced monetary stewardship of Professor Dean Dan, SSBC's Okanagan campus is livelier than ever. Formerly a backcountry haven for lackadaisical students who missed the registration deadline for their program of choice in Vancouver, the Okanagan is now the premier destination for students pursuing excellence in education and, more importantly, unmitigated hedonism.

Your future is bright. Your future is with Saunder.

UNPARALLELED LUXURY

The profits from our methamphetamine manufacturing facilities at SSBC's Vancouver campus effectively ensure that SSBC-O students can expect to enjoy unparalleled levels of luxury for decades to come.

CUTTING DOWN BARRIERS

Thanks to the revenue we have accrued by selling centuries-old hardwood from the clear-cutting of Point Grey's Pacific Spirit Park, Saunder can guarantee the quality of your SSBC-O education.

LEADING BY POWER

As resources become more scarce and the world descends into tribalism and anarchy, our intellectual capacity will become less and less important. At Saunder, we are working to wring what's left out of society's best and brightest before the fall. Pictured on the right is our advanced weaponry lab where we're finding better ways to "kill people or get rich trying," as the unofficial school motto goes.

WHY REINVENT THE WHEEL?

Who needs innovation when the oil barons of the 19th century already figured out how to get filthy rich? SSBC is investing its resources in good old fashioned oil rig design — what better way to teach engineers?

POWER INFLUENCE WEALTH

If we've learned one thing in our time running Canada's second largest research university, it's leading by power. No longer will we have to synergize our hierarchical leadership structure. Now, whoever has the most power leads. Pitbulls don't lounge outside our administrator's offices for fun — they're there to ward off power grabs from less visionary leaders. They are also, we are told, aphrodisiacs. What's not to love?

If your son comes to Saunder we'll teach him to be a man — one who can drag society forward as they fight tooth and nail not to go, ignoring their pleas for mercy without it taking the slightest toll on his psyche. And if you send your daughter, we'll teach her to be a man, too.

From your apartment, you'll have access to incredible views across the Georgia Strait and the Point Grey peninsula — and once our construction megaprojects are complete, you won't even be able to see the slums. In the meantime, your projecting balcony is the perfect place to reflect upon the emptiness of your soul while throwing spent champagne corks down onto the mindless peons marching beneath you.

LUXURIOUS RESIDENCES

FUN ON EVERY LEVEL

At the Sauder School of British Columbia, we take lord-ing our wealth over those around us very seriously.

That's why we've privatized all our on-campus residences — to ensure that only students with the right credentials can access our state-of-the-art living spaces.

We take a progressive approach to providing accommodation for our most prestigious prospects. By converting our varsity fields and endowment lands into residential zones, constructing dozens of new condominiums and bracket-ing out anyone whose parents earn less than $100,000 a year, we've effectively monopolized campus real estate.

By 2017, we expect to have completely eradicated any semblance of a local culture.

It's an exciting time to be an SSBC student.

5

WAYS YOU CAN CONTRIBUTE TO THE
SAUNDER CAUSE

- 1. Hire your own international student: $5,000 per day. Saunder's International Student Internship System has resolved the problematic situation where international students could not work without an appropriate visa. Now, for a low daily rate, you can hire your very own international student. Get them to mow your lawn, clean your house, work at your business or anything else — those tuition fees won't pay themselves!
- 2. Name the monkey fighting ring: $10,000. Since freeing ourselves from the tyranny of democracy, we have ramped up our animal research programs significantly. To fund the expansion, we've introduced a monkey fighting cage where the primates who have not been too severely injured by our experimentation get to duke it out for your entertainment. See your name in lights beneath a festive sheen of gorilla entrails and lemur blood!
- 3. Buy a student's diploma: $50,000. Many entrepreneurs never graduated from university, but that doesn't mean you shouldn't still reap the same rewards as those who did. Pay up front when a top candidate enters Saunder and, while they won't find out until graduation, they'll actually be working for your diploma! No longer will you have to feel embarrassment over your failure to graduate from university.

WHERE WE WILL RULE THE WORLD

4. Stuffed Arts student: $75,000. Receive a complimentary mounted Arts student to display in your penthouse office or mansion. This unique specimen will come fully equipped with a pungent herbal aroma and an expression of purposelessness on its face.
5. Buy a professor for $150,000. As part of our efforts to increase funding in lieu of government subsidies, we have monetized various departments of our university. Now, the professors behind these initiatives can be yours! Instead of entering a contract with specialists for every one of your corporation's needs, pay a one-time fee and retain a professor as your personal expert and/or servant.

INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE

POPULAR DESTINATIONS

- 1 Amsterdam
- 2 Thailand
- 3 Colombia
- 4 Afghanistan
- 5 Mexico

A WORLD OF OPPORTUNITIES From Amsterdam to Colombia and back

Saunders' Drug Cycle internship opportunities take you straight to the heart of the action, from the coke plantations to the trafficking ring.

SEE THE WORLD BEFORE YOU RULE IT

SSBC has long been known for its international character and diverse student body. Now, we're building on that with the Equidae Pharmaceutical Program. In this unique program, non-Canadian citizen students will be sent to hotspots of illicit drug trade around the world bringing back bulk samples for Saude development purposes. Students involved in the Equidae program will gain real-life experience in negotiation and fitness and will broaden their horizons in more way than one.
